The Catechism Council of Trent, Translated Into English: With Notes (Classic Reprint) Catholic Church Buckley

The satisfactory reception that greeted a recent publication entitled the Decrees and Canons of the Council of Trent, and the approbation bestowed upon the undertaking by several of the highest dignitaries of the English Church, will, it is hoped, justify the appearance of the Catechism, put forth by the same Council, and now published in an equally popular form. Whilst I confess myself in many respects indebted to the translation published by the Rev. J. Donovan, I must express my surprise that a work abounding in so many manifest inaccuracies, should have obtained public sanction, and even been reprinted at the Propaganda Press. The state of Roman Catholic Theology must be low, where so careless an edition of documents so important, forms the sole medium of their communication in the English language. I have been sparing of notes in the present edition, chiefly because an increased size of the volume would have been inconsistent with its cheapness. What are given, are intended to point out some of the main points of difference, and, occasionally, of agreement, between the Reformed and the Romish Churches.
