We all see those people on the television that go into remote places on Earth to survive. They may be in the somewhere in Alaska, in the harsh Andes or Alps, or somewhere in the cruel Sahara or even the unforgiving Outback. No matter where these people go, they tend to have one thing in common: their bags are filled with survival gear.

Now, this is, of course, necessary if they hope to make it out in these conditions, but what about those people that aren't expecting to be thrown into a survival situation? What about those people that were out to have a good time and got lost? Or those people that were simply going about their day when a natural disaster hit?

With these things in mind, there is something else you ought to have in common with these survivalists: you should always be ready to survive. Of course, you could put together a survival kit for when the unthinkable happens, but what about when you are caught off guard? What do you need to have on hand for those times?

This is exactly where this book comes in. In it I will show you how to survive using a wide variety of items, and how to use things you never would have thought of otherwise. Whether it is something as meager as a plastic water bottle or clever ways to get a fire going, you are going to find what you need in this book.

- Learn how to turn the simple, everyday items around you into survival tools
- Pack your bag to be prepared for anything and everything
- Be ready at all times no matter where you live or what you like to do with your day
- Build the confidence you need to survive any situation that comes your way
- And more!
